

art school

Students create artwork inspired by campus' 50th anniversary

By Lizabeth Peña

To celebrate the ending of the 50th year of Holmes, students in Joyce Muncy's art classes each made an art piece to represent the school, including three gigantic nine by 14-foot paintings of parts of the school by advanced Art III and Art IV students.

As Muncy helped students with ideas to put their skills toward, the project built excitement.

"I'm very excited. I think they've done well, and it looks amazing," Muncy said. Students, teachers, district officials, alumni, and others saw the hard work the art students put in and appreciated it.

"The painting looks great; they worked really hard, I could tell. I was working on my painting near them and I heard their plans on what to do, and what they started with. The colors pop out and the outcome of it is amazing. It turned out great," senior Nancy Gonzalez said.

The creators of the original art pieces depicted above include:
 1) Lesley Duerler, Erendira Morales, Angelica Rodriguez, Eli Tobias, Joshua Balderas, and Deneria Bridges
 2) Justin Acosta
 3) Rand Alsaberi, Jonathan Ojeda, and Christiaan Ramirez
 4) Michael Cobble

Photos of artwork by Lizabeth Peña

LIL' PELÓN IN THE LAND OF HUSKIES

Written & Illustrated By Roland Calbillo, Jr.

After Resurrection...
 School the next day...

10 minutes later...

To be continued...