

Close Up on the Coaches

By Dylan Wilkus & Robbie Warhola

Some of the Gorzycki coaches have taught at other places and have various stories.

Coach Eamonn Neary has been coaching for 16 years.

"[My favorite experience was] when I was with my high school basketball team and we got to go to the playoffs," Neary said.

Coach Jenny Warner coaches many sports, including seventh grade A-team volleyball.

"I think I was born with a passion for sports and coaching sports," Warner said.

Neary began coaching in college, after a basketball injury put him on the bench for the season. He continued coaching after that to share his love of sports. He believes that he is the most involved with the players when he coaches football and basketball.

"I have been playing sports my whole life, and I knew that I wanted to be involved in them after I graduated college," Neary said.

Coach Kim Kehoe got her inspiration for coaching from her high school basketball team.

"I love to work with the student athletes and I love to teach and play sports," Kehoe said.

Warner wanted to motivate student athletes to do their best, and also believes that coaching is the best job in the world.

Coach Jason Gaines works with his students during eighth period. Photo by editor Ashley Johnson.

"I love to coach track and volleyball because the girls are really fast and learn quickly," Warner said. "Coaching is important because you have to have a leader on the team to teach the girls offenses and defenses."

College Football Faces Final Showdown

Sports Commentary by editor Tate Shiono & Caden Colton

On December 5, 4 major championship games were played to decide who would earn a spot in the 2016 College Football Playoff, or a bowl berth. The day after, 4 teams claimed a spot in the final rankings, looking to advance further for a national championship. On December 31st, New Year's Eve, we will see two interesting semifinals, with the winner of each heading to Glendale, Arizona for the National Championship Game. Here are the match-ups and teams in both semifinals.

Capital One Orange Bowl at Sun Life Stadium, Miami Gardens, Florida, Thursday, Dec. 31, 3:00 pm on ESPN

#1 Clemson Tigers (13-0) vs. #4 Oklahoma Sooners (11-1)
Clemson stays unbeaten at 13-0 after beating #10 North Carolina in the ACC Championship Game. Two explosive offenses meet, as Heisman candidate QB DeShaun Watson leads Clemson against Oklahoma and walk-on QB Baker Mayfield. Clemson crushed the Sooners last year in the Russell Athletic Bowl, so OU looks for redemption to advance.

Goodyear Cotton Bowl at AT&T Stadium, Arlington, Texas, Thursday, December 31, 7:00 PM on ESPN

#2 Alabama Crimson Tide (12-1) vs. #3 Michigan State Spartans (12-1)

Alabama and Heisman hopeful RB Derrick Henry get a chance at another Big Ten opponent after losing to Ohio State last year, though this time facing Michigan State, who had huge wins against Ohio State and Iowa. The winner will be the team who can grind it out with the running game and defense.

CAPITAL ONE ORANGE BOWL
DECEMBER 31
#1 CLEMSON VS. #4 OKLAHOMA

GOODYEAR COTTON BOWL
DECEMBER 31
#2 ALABAMA VS.
#3 MICHIGAN STATE

COLLEGE FOOTBALL PLAYOFF
NATIONAL CHAMPIONSHIP
JANUARY 11
8:30 PM