

Pink Heals of Gregg County

photo by Makenna Gibbs

The pink heals fire fighters make an annual trip around the nation to honor those who have fought or are currently fighting cancer. In awe of the support that stands in front of them, Nory Hearn, Mary Underwood and Suzanne Woodburn watch as everyone congratulates them on their victory against cancer.

photo by Makenna Gibbs

Diagnosed at such an early age, the life she lives fighting against Leukemia seems normal to her. In shock of the number of people around her and supporting her, Nory Hearn signs her name on the Pink Heals fire fighter truck and joins the ranks of the numerous fighters and survivors who have done the same.

photo by Makenna Gibbs

Staring out into the crowd, Nory Hearn listens to the firefighter as he encourages her and supports her in her journey. Pink heals serves as a squad of people that guide the family and patient in the their trek through the cancer world.

photo courtesy of Clint Noll

As an encouragement to the family and Camryn, Pink Heals and the community came together after the volleyball game between White Oak and Elysian Fields to honor the Noll's and their victory against cancer which they have been battling for a few years. Camryn has been facing this difficulty for a few years.

photo courtesy of Clint Noll

In honor of Camryn Noll and her family fighting through her cancer, Pink Heals came to the elementary to allow her and others to sign the pink fire truck along with many other cancer survivors and current fighters. The school and community have fought long and hard beside Noll and this is just one of many examples of the support following them.

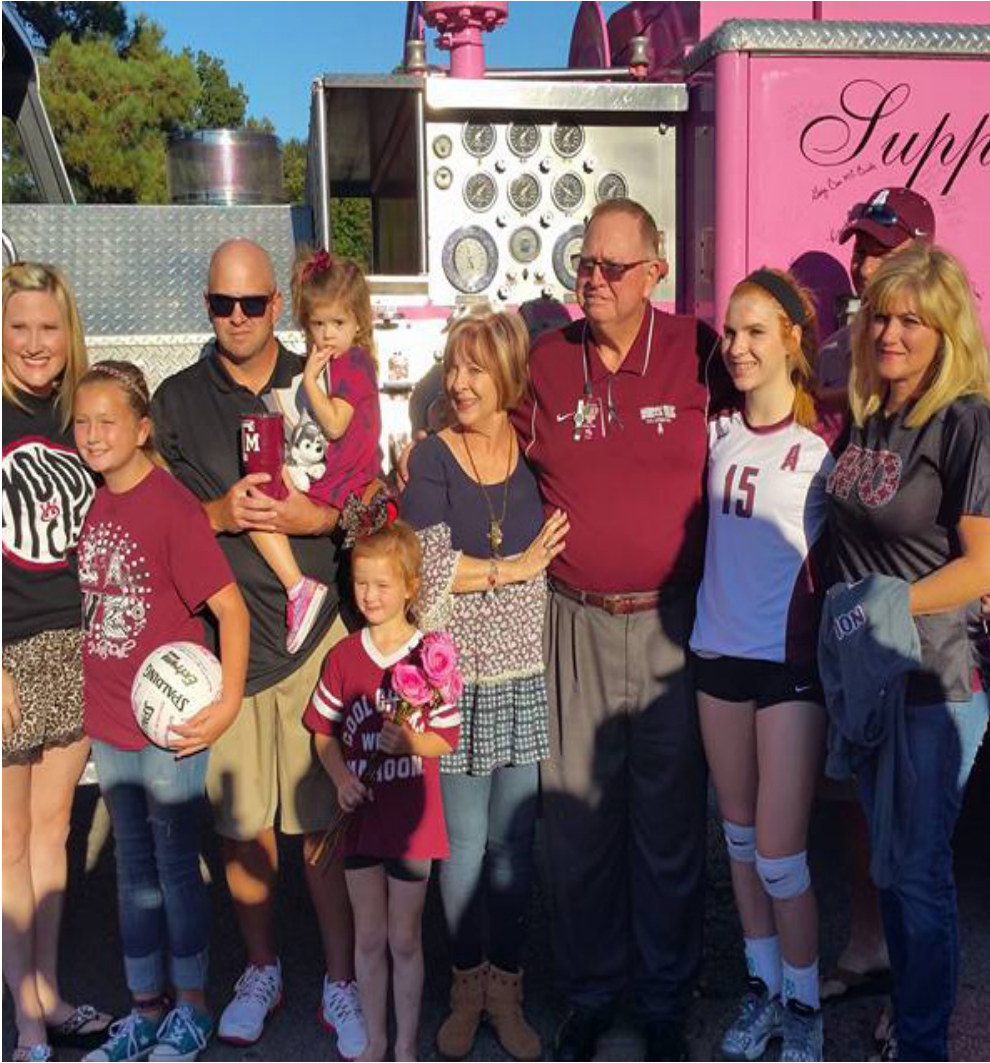

photo courtesy of Clint Noll

As a family that represents White Oak and what we stand for, the Nolls gather in front of the Pink Heals truck to show their support and stand together as a family with bravery and strength. They strive to show their community that no matter how hard times may get, standing together is the key.