Capture the Moment

Thinking of yearbook themes is, no doubt, one of the hardest things that we do in here and that is probably the reason why we couldn't decide on a theme until December. Countless class periods were spent debating, arguing and contemplating this year's theme because we were such a diverse group of 'yerds.' It was extremely difficult finding something that we could all agree on.

With a loud-mouth, opinionated and power-hogging KidEaterr (Kristen Hernandez) in command and her equally introverted and passive, quiet co-editor, it was a challenge finding common ground between the two, so we turned to the yearbook minions. This proved to be a bad decision because the diversity of the staff was greater than that of the editors. The year's staff consisted of an esoterically distracted artist, a hard-working encouraging cheerleader, a financial advising athlete, a musical tech-savvy historian, a dramatically emotional mascot and not to mention our over-stressed, quirky advisor. That being said, the struggling group of yearbook nerds settled on the subtle suggestions from their advisor for the common theme between them; Capture the Moment.

The theme seemed easy enough to do, but we were gravely mistaken. A majority of this year's staff were seniors and the realization of the sentimentality of truly capturing the last three years and the final year of high-school was hard. Saying it was hard was an understatement and many times we broke down and cried reminiscing over precious high school moments. At times we got stubborn and lazy not wanting to finish what would be our last yearbook*, but thanks to our super-supportive juniors pushing us into the right direction and our wonderful advisor threatening bad grades if we didn't do our work, we captured the moments of 2015. We hope you enjoy the collection of moments and memories in your yearbook.

-We out, co-editors,
Kristen 'KidEaterr' Hernandez and Yeni Rodriguez

*Even with grade threats and "small" temper tantrums, the delay to finish the book was understandable. The theme was a tough one especially for the seniors and the task was to find the moments that would represent the year. I feel my staff was stalling. If they would sift through the moments and not commit to them they would cause the year to slow down. Unfortunately, they found that "tempus fugit."

Best wishes to my senior crew and Lauren, Jeremy, and Estefania...get ready for next year. Your time will go just as fast.

Linda L. Thompson - yearbook advisor
