

63

OLD number of students in the seventh grade in 1964

87

NEW number of students in the seventh grade this year

32%

OLD percentage of Middle School students who were in the seventh grade in 1964

26%

NEW percentage of Middle School students who are in the seventh grade

SPONSOR: Lukas Rahlsom
ADVISORS: Meagan Frazier, John Frost, Timothy Hicks, Timothy Mank, Daniel Northcut, Mihai Oprea, Dwight Phillips, Martin Puitido, Lukas Rahlsom, Robert Rozelle

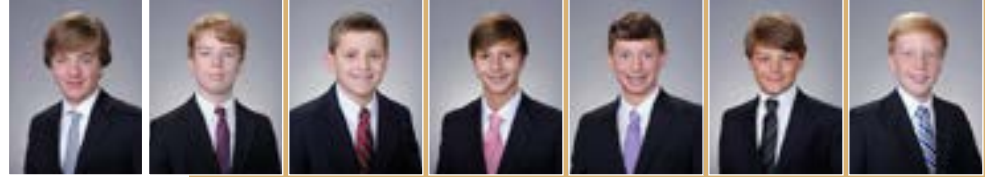

CLASS OF

2020

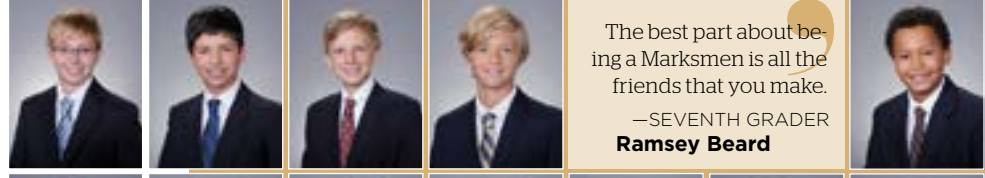

Luke Adams
Samuel Ahmed
Obaid Akbar
Anthony Andrews
Mason Antes
Daniel Ardila
Andres Arroyo

Wyatt Awtry
Ramsey Beard
Spencer Buchholz
Colin Campbell
Warren Clark
Campbell Collins
Lincoln Dales

Judson Dommer
Luke Evangelist
Henry Exall
Kyle Fisher
Odran Fitzgerald

The best part about being a Marksmen is all the friends that you make.
—SEVENTH GRADER
Ramsey Beard

Randall Fojtasek
Brendan Goldaber
Samuel Goldfarb
Reid Goldsmith
Richard Gonzalez
Ishan Gupta
Benjamin Hao

Miles Hartley
William Holtby
Alekh Houllion
Luke Jacobs
Theophanis Katsulos
Justin Kim
David Li

William Lockhart
John Loftus
Thomas Loose
William Mallick
Robert Marsh
Romil Mathur
Thaxton Mathur

John David McClain
Ryan McCord
Jack McCutchan
Titus McGowan
Jackson Morris
Rosser Newton
John Noonan

Devan Patel
Alessandro Piccagli
Eddie Raj
Kathan Rammath
Mason Rareshide
Matthew Raroque
Anshu Reddy

William Rocchio
Ricardo Rodriguez
Charles Rose
Charles Rubarth
Lee Schlosser
Ryan Schwartz
Paxton Scott

Jackson Singhal
Henry Stache
Paul Sullivan
Jackson Swango
Aaron Thorne
Bradley Utschek
Rahul Vashi

Aaron Weiser
Wallace White
Russell Wilner
Tianming Xie
Eli Yancey
Jason Yoo
Meyer Zinn

Pablo Arroyo
Faraz Asim

Samuel D'Apice
Mason DeYoung

kickoff

DOWN-SET...HUT Eighth grade quarterback Shazeb Dayani stands ready to receive the ball. Middle School sports exposes seventh and eighth graders to the competitive aura of Upper School sports.

Tobechukwu Nwafor
Christian Pardo

Parker Reich
Kasen Roberson

Sahitya Senapathy
James Shiao

Siddharth Vattamreddy
Christopher Wang

- Seventh grade has been the first year of organized athletics for as long as the school has offered sports
- While Marksmen of the past didn't have as many options in sports as today, they never missed an opportunity to show school pride
- Most young middle schoolers would play football, cross country, fencing, swimming, soccer, basketball, golf, baseball or tennis

BLITZ The 1964 Middle School football team throws a quick play to successfully win the game against a rival school as featured in that year's Marksmen yearbook.

first DOWN

Seventh grade brings a lot of change. From the classroom to fine arts, teenage Marksmen make a big change. But for many, the biggest transition is onto the field, under the lights and in a St. Mark's uniform.

Seventh grade brings with it the opportunity to represent the community no longer just academically but also athletically. With 13 offered sports and and two extra periods off per day, seventh graders get the chance to take a break from the increased workload and blow off some steam running on the field, swimming in the pool or playing on the court.

"I don't have to hold back anything 'til the end of the day," seventh grader Ramsey Beard said. "I can just blow off all the steam I have during eighth and ninth period."

While Middle School sports provide students with a relaxing way to end the day, they also allow many students to form friendships outside of the classroom with kids they may not have had classes with.

"I like to play with my friends but not with people I already know," seventh grader Charlie Rose said, "so that's kind of a nice deal."

