

OCTOBER RECAP

12 Creek fest

Senior Cherilyn Hwang participates in the creek fest color run. "The most fun part was when we threw colors on the runners," Hwang said. "Doing it for a cause made people happy, even the younger ones were getting involved. Seeing everyone covered in the colored powder was really cool. It was a great experience." photo by Harrison Worzel

29 Pumpkin perfection

Senior Victor Gonzalez and junior Angel Zainalabdeen decorate a pumpkin for the HOSA party. "It was pretty crazy mummifying our teachers with toilet paper," Gonzalez said. "I liked doing the pumpkin carving contest." photo by Taylor Confer

3 | FALL FESTIVITIES

Spooky night

Multiple clubs and organizations dressed up for the football game on Halloween night. The stands were filled from zombies and ghosts to power rangers and spidemen.

Tiger belles dressed up to show their Halloween spirit.

"I enjoyed the football game because I like getting to support the school," freshman Britnee Serrano said. "I got to show school spirit in a different way than usual and showed that the Tiger Belles aren't just plain. We wore skeleton costumes for the performance, just like they did seven years ago. We did this because Bumham thought it would be fun to bring it back."

The cheerleaders dressed up as football players to not only celebrate the holiday, but to support the team.

"I liked the game because we got to support the football boys by wearing their uniforms," junior Hadley Hanson said. "Cheering was fun because there was so much more spirit because of what day it was."

3 | A thrilling night

Junior Xenia Worontsoff performs a clog routine to thriller at half time with her fellow tiger belles "It was really fun to dance because it was a holiday so we were able to get in the spirit of it," Worontsoff said. "It was also fun to dance with a group of girls who I am so close to, they're like my family and it's always fun to dance with the people you care about." photo by Rachel Beach

"I know how to do Tae Kwon Do. I think self-defense is really important and it's fun. I use nun chucks and everything." -Daniel Sims, 09 □ "I've taken six science classes, which is more than I should. I've taken extra because I really like science." -Haleigh Gutierrez, 12

6 HOMECOMING

Homecoming week

For Homecoming week, students dressed up to show their tiger pride and spirit.

"On Mix it up Monday I wore a Christmas sweater, tutu, weird socks and a wack headband," sophomore Lindsey Peng said. "It was really fun."

Students dressed up for Tropical Tuesday to support homecoming week.

"For Hawaiian day I wore a shirt with a palm tree along with a lei," sophomore Chloe Rogozinski said.

On Wednesday many teenagers were mistaken for the elderly.

"For elderly day, Way back Wednesday, I actually looked like an old person," senior Kathryn Powell said. "I wore a jumpsuit, a high neck undershirt, crocs, and a home made life alert button." Spread by McKenzie Scoppa

25 Haunting horror

Junior Sophia Kamal dressed up as creepy Red Riding hood for the orchestra fall party. "My job was to jump out and scare anyone who passed me," Kamal said. "I really liked the haunted house this year because it was different and gave kids an opportunity to make new friends." photo by Boi-Han Nguyen

Airheads

Junior Mavi Ontiveros blows up balloons while setting up for the Homecoming dance. "Setting up for the dance was pretty amazing to me," Ontiveros said. "We got to see how something so simple can come out to look so spectacular." photo by Genesis Sosa

21

Spirit filled stands

Senior Collins Crew member Katelin Broadbent leads the stands at a volleyball game. "It's definitely fun to get people pumped up, especially the dance we call roller coaster," Broadbent said. "We use this dance to get the underclassmen to participate as well." photo by Karley Crawford

16 Dressing up

Senior Caroline DaPra (above) and senior Mitchell Brown (left) dressed up for Homecoming week. "I wanted to pay respect to my veteran elders," Brown said. "What better way to do that by having fun at school with it" photos by Evelyn Mata and Julia Wells

DECEMBER RECAP

17

Season's greetings

Senior Svannah Nguyen makes a holiday ornament in floral design. "I love Christmas season," Nguyen said. "It is my favorite time of year, so I like being able to make decorations in school. It was fun and crafty and I enjoyed it." photo by Amir Malcolm

17

Kickin' grass

Junior midfielder Isaac Chandler fights for the ball at the first soccer practice of the season. "After our first practice I thought we had potential, but with definite room to grow as a team," Chandler said. "I have faith in these guys and think we will work our hardest to shock a lot of people this season." photo by Hanna Enkelmann

3

Workshop wonders

Teacher Norman Grueneich and freshman Harrison Beck cut wood in the theater workshop. "I'm in production acting, but when I work on tech I love it," Beck said. "I sometimes would rather be here working than be at home." photo by Amir Malcolm

14 FESTIVITIES

Holiday break

In December, 'tis the season for traveling. Everyone remembers their family road trips spent filled with bathroom breaks and whining siblings, but at the end of the break, all they can reflect on is the amazing memories they created with one another.

"Over the break, I hung out with my family," freshman Emily Emshoff said. "I usually spend time with my family over the break because I like being able to see them more than I do when I am in school."

Although some spent time with family, others got to travel to other places.

"I got to play in a hockey tournament over the break," senior Tristan Weinholzer said. "I got to travel to Denver and play against higher level teams. Although I don't travel as much for hockey as much as I used to, I still get to travel a lot."

"What makes me an individual is that I like 80's and 70's music, like Guns N' Roses, Bon Jovi, and Toto. My parents played a lot of older music when I was growing up. I just heard it all the time and ended up liking it." -James Allison, 12

27 NEW YEAR

Resolutions

It is tradition for a person to make a New Year's resolution, how could one kick off the new year without a way they can improve themselves. These resolutions are formed from wanting to drastically change their life to maybe wanting some self-improvement.

"I want to get more cut now that football season is over," senior William Moreland said. "In order to do so I need to eat healthy by improving my eating habits and going to the gym. The most difficult thing for me is going to be able to stay away from fast food because I love food."

Another popular resolution for students was to improve study habits.

"I want to make better grades second semester," senior John Cullinan said. "I want to develop better study habits for college. College is very important to me and I want to do the best I can. My sister set a very high precedent and I want to meet expectations." spread by McKenzie Scoppa

12 In remembrance

ROTC Colorguard members stand tall with the flags at the Emily Rose swim meet. "We wanted to show respect for a fellow school member," senior Melissa Smith said. "We were able to honor her and show respect for students who may have known her and want to continue her legacy." photo by Olivia Borg

"Pippin" pals

Sophomore William Hahn and senior Jordan Rubio rehearse for the spring musical. "Pippin actually reminds me of myself in a lot of ways," Rubio said. "Pippin and I are both just trying to find meaning in our lives. He really reflects who I am as a person." photo by Reghan Scott

19

Spirited sweaters

Senior Montserrat Benedicto dressed up for the last day before the winter break. "It was my last year and I wanted to show Christmas spirit," Benedicto said. "I had so much fun and I liked seeing all of my friends dressing up, taking pictures and making memories." photo by Sydney Sokora

5 A catastrophe

Seniors Richard Doughten (above) and Mary Bui (right) dissect cats in anatomy. "In cat dissections I got to learn more about how the body works," Doughten said. "It's cool to be able to see all of the muscles." photos by Jenna Chandler

