

ONE MORE DANCE

MOVERS & SHAKERS TAKE THE FLOOR AT PROM

After months of searching the internet for dresses and finding just the right way to ask a date, it came down to just four short hours. The doors to the Convention Center opened at 7 p.m. and an hour later, the prom dance floor was full until students left for Casino Night.

BATTLING IT OUT

When the dance floor started to feel cramped, sophomore Matt Day came up with a solution.

"We formed a circle to the side which was a lot of fun because I could hang out with my friends without feeling hemmed in," Matt said. "The funniest part was watching the dance battles erupt in the middle of the circle."

UP IN ARMS

Senior Whitney Wiltshire wanted to try her luck one last time. She had tried crowd surfing at Sadie and was determined to do it again. "I was really excited to crowd surf, but when I got up there I was deathly afraid of someone dropping me," she said.

The crowd didn't drop her but instead lifted another student, junior Conner Patterson, in the air to join her.

"I thought it was a good idea because my friends were standing around and I knew they would catch me," he said.

ICE ICE DADDY?

As another song came to an end, junior Daniel Womack watched as his guitar-playing father, Sean Womack, turn his cap backward. As the first beats to "Ice Ice Baby" started to play, his dad grabbed the mic and started to sing.

"I know when I look back, it will be a cool and funny memory having my dad perform at prom," Daniel said.
