Gathering around, dads take their daughters to the dance and enjoy quality time together while helping the student council raise money for the State Conference. "My favorite part of the dance was dancing with my dad," Layne Simpson [3] said. "At the end of the song he would always say 'Good job, you were really cute out there.'"

Waiting for the flash to go off Chassity Miller [K] and her grandfather Ken Hatley pose for the camera at the photobooth. "Me and my papa practice dancing at my house," Miller said. "We didn't have any music, papa just had it in his mouth."

photo booth theme and what items we would have for snacks."

The dance will be a chance for fathers to spend time with their daughters. The Student Council raises money that will go towards their trip to the State Conference.

"My favorite part was when I got to dance with my dad," Londyn Bodovsky [3] said. "I normally go with my mom to things, but this time I got to go with my dad."

The WOHS Student Council members worked hard to ensure that the dance ran smoothly and was a magical experience for the students.

"The dance was such a success last year, there are possible plans to further it in the future. We plan on doing this as a yearly event," Taylor said. "We have even thought of possibly doing a mother/son dance."

The WOHS Student Council sponsored a "Night Under the Stars" father/daughter dance from 6:30 to 8:30 on Feb. 6 in the WOHS cafeteria.

The dance was for PreK-5th grade girls and their fathers, any other adult male relative, or a family friend. "After last year, seeing the girls spend times with their daddies pulled at my heart," Student Council sponsor Kim Taylor said. "Especially the ones that do not get to spend a lot of time with them."

Many of the kids look forward to seeing the different themes, pretty decorations and the variety of delicious foods and drinks.

"We have come up with the theme," Taylor said. "The Brainstorming ideas, Layton Anderson [10] prepares to write an essay for his Pre-AP English class over whether it's better to dream big or to be realistic. "Mrs. Pearce has us write a reflection to a prompt everyday to simply keep our creative juices flowing, and for that, I am truly grateful," Anderson said.

Working during his English class, Edy Guillen [8] works on a Word Study Chart that is given to the students every week to improve their vocabulary skills. "I like Word Study Chart because it helps me learn new words for the future," Guillen said.

Studying the skeleton, Daphne Bogenschutz [7] reviews the bones before her exam. "We were looking up which bones were where because we were learning about the skeletal system," Bogenschutz said. "There was a quiz coming up."

Taking turns, Colby Siegley [10] waits as his group member finishes their turn during the skeet shoot fundraiser. "I enjoy the suspense of seeing if they are going to hit it or not," Siegley said.

Poppin' Pigeons

Shooting to raise money, Kason Kienzle [10] awaits for the clay pigeons to be launched up into the air. "I decided to help out with raising money because the money that was raised is going towards one of my proms," Kienzle said. "Also, I know the parents that set it up worked really hard."

Keeping track of the clay pigeons Christina Marvin [10] and Antonio Castiglione [11] wait for the shooter to finish his turn. "The skeet shoot did not feel like a job because we had so much fun," Marvin said.

Moment of Kindness:

"I built a basketball goal with my family for the Highway 80 Rescue Mission." Connor Hearron [11]

"Going into 7th grade I went on a mission trip with my family to Honduras, we helped in a school teaching the kids there." Sydney Simpson [10]

"I once went to San Antonio with my church to help kids who got caught trying to come into the country illegally. They were held at a camp and I played video games with them." Wyatt Smith [10]

"One time my friend Sydney was babysitting these really bad kids and they were crazy and so I brought her Chick-fil-A." Kate Pullen [10]
