WE MISSED OUT ON...

... MONTHS OF BLUE BELL

Listeria came and homemade vanilla went. We suffered through the summer paying four dollars for a scoop from Coldstone or just not eating ice cream at all. Finally after nine months of waiting, Blue Bell released a few favorites that hit grocery stores in December. "I was disappointed they didn't have my favorite flavor—mint chocolate chip—when it first came back," junior Matthew Lindsey said. (MHinton)

... 1.3 BILLION DOLLARS

The line to buy lottery tickets was out the door and around the corner as hopeful billionaires stood in line for the power ball lottery on Jan. 13. While no one from Texarkana was lucky enough to hit the record $1.3 billion jackpot, it was fun to participate anyway. "My dad bought me a lottery ticket. I never thought I would care about the lottery but with all the hype, why not," Hannah Haltom said. (Staff)

... JAMMING WITH ADELE

After a four-year wait, we finally said "Hello" to a new album entitled "25." With seven straight weeks as the number one song on the Billboard 200, Adele sold 194,000 total albums, setting a new record for a female artist. "I was so excited to hear her new song, but it got annoying when it was stuck in my head forever," Emily Gatlin said. (EWomack)

... TWITTER "FAVORITES"

When Twitter changed their signature star to a heart, they really shook things up in the social media world. "I always liked 'favoriting' things on Twitter because every other post gets a 'like'. 'Liking' a tweet just seems weird," Sarah Wiltshire said. (Staff)
