

FAVORITE elementary school TRADITIONS

"We created play money and shops to buy things. You would get money by obtaining a reward star for completed homework."
Jasmine Fail, 12

"I went to school in California, and we had recess three times a day. Fun and play three times a day? Yes, please."
Jillian Di Gaetano, 10

"In the morning before school during the winter, my dad would stop at the convenience store to get my brother and me hot chocolate."
Sheridan Johnson, 12

"My favorite tradition was singing the bluejay song at Barton Creek Elementary."
Drew Young, 9

"My favorite elementary school tradition was the Orff Ensemble. In fourth and fifth grade, we could join and we would play various instruments like the recorder and glockenspiel. It was the reason I'm interested in music."
Alex Solis, 12

"My friends and I used to dance in the talent show every year, and then we shot confetti at people. It was so much fun."
Elena Castanon, 10

"My favorite tradition at Forest Trail was at the end of every month when we had an assembly and one kid was elected to cut off the principal's tie."
Brenham Palmer, 10

"The marble jar parties were always my favorite. I loved when my class would plan the parties and all the parents would participate by bringing games and food."
Casey Hallman, 10

"In my class, we had weekly raffles. Every time you did something good or got a good grade, you got your name put in the jar. If you won, you got to pick a prize."
Jane Cooper, 9
